

Prelox® can help you make love longer and better: that means it can help you experience wellness and fulfillment, one of the greatest joys of life.

Time steals from us every day, it weakens the body and mind and dulls the senses. But, once in a while, an opportunity arises to slow down time and recapture what it has stolen to experience again the kind of pleasure you were once capable of.

Prelox® is a remarkable, new food supplement that can help most men maintain wellness. Prelox® can help recapture the pleasure and passion time diminishes without affecting spontaneity.

Prelox® has been scientifically shown to enhance male pleasure. It can help revitalise your performance, maintain your confidence and achieve high levels of pleasure and satisfaction, both for yourself and your partner.

What is Prelox®?

Prelox® is a unique patented combination of two naturally occurring substances, L-Arginine and Pycnogenol®.

L-Arginine is an essential amino acid found in many foods. In contrast, Pycnogenol® is obtained only from an extract of the bark of the French maritime pine tree.

It is the unique interaction between these two substances which helps maintain healthy blood vessels and sustain blood flow to the genital area, which is, in turn, important in the body's response, ability to maintain erections and ultimate satisfaction.

Why should I consider Prelox®?

Prelox® is a safe, drug-free way to enhance pleasure which assists the body's ability to maintain an erection.

Feeling confident and secure makes you feel capable of achieving greater satisfaction for yourself and your partner.

Is Prelox® safe?

Neither of the naturally occurring nutrients present in Prelox®, L-Arginine and Pycnogenol®, have been reported to be toxic or to have any significant adverse effects.

How long does it take to see a maximum response?

You should experience maximum wellness after approximately four weeks of regular use of Prelox®.

How do I take Prelox®?

Two tablets, twice a day, for the first two weeks. Then one or two tablets twice a day to maintain your enhanced pleasure.

Does Prelox® have side effects?

A small percentage of people may experience flushing or headaches when they first begin using Prelox®, but this should lessen with regular use. If you are seriously ill, on multiple medications, suffer from severe hypertension or heart disease, consult your physician before using Prelox®.

PRELOX

How does Prelox® work?

Prelox® is a proprietary blend of L-Arginine and Pycnogenol®. L-Arginine is used by the body to form a substance called nitric oxide which, in turn, plays an important role in controlling blood vessel diameter, and hence blood circulatory flow.

Pycnogenol® contains substances which activate enzymes within the body necessary for converting L-Arginine into nitric oxide; in addition, Pycnogenol® contains powerful antioxidants, which help to maintain healthy blood vessels by protecting against damaging free radicals continually produced within the body.

Prelox® and Pycnogenol® are registered trademarks of Horphag Research Ltd.

Prelox® is protected by U.S. patent #6,565,851B2 and E.P. 1587522B1.

Pycnogenol® is protected by U.S. patents #5,720,956 and #6,372,266 and other international patents.
